$5,000 Loss In Fire At Placerville Bakery

Early-Morning Blaze Damages Trucks, Stock In Warehouse Of Kelly Store; Faulty Hydrant Abets Flames

Damage estimated at $5,000 was done by a fire which broke out about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning in the shop of the Placerville Bakery, on Center street, and spread to the adjoining warehouse of the M. T. Kelly grocery. It was the second early-morning fire in the city in as many days.

Placerville Volunteer Fire Department members were delayed in getting water on the blaze when they were unable to get water from a fire hydrant on Center street, almost directly opposite the bakery shop, and were forced to draw water from Main street hydrants.

City Marshall James P. Morton, following an investigation, said that the reason the firemen were unable to get water from the hydrant lay in the fact that whoever had last turned on the hydrant had closed it so tightly that the valve had been sprung.

Unable to get water at the first hydrant, the firemen sought to connect with a Main street hydrant opposite the bell tower and found the street blocked by a truck of hay which had caught upon an awning between the Forni building and the Placerville News agency, entering into Main street.

Meanwhile a second crew brought a line in from the lower end of the street and, in due time, the first crew was successful in getting through to the hydrant and connecting up.

Mr. Kelly estimates the damage to the building as about $1,000 and to the trucks as $4,000.

Three Fires On Brush Land

Kelsey, Greenwood, Mosquito Districts Scene Of Blazes

The fires on grass and brush lands Tuesday afternoon called nearly 100 firefighters to duty under the leadership of State Fire Warden Willard Austin, of Mt. Danaher state fire headquarters.

Most serious blaze of the three was in the Kelsey district where an area of about 75 acres a mile north of Kelsey burned over. The blaze was controlled late Tuesday and burned throughout the night under a patrol of Snowline and Pine Grove CCC enrollees numbering about sixty. The fire was still burning Wednesday noon but continued under control.

Approximately five acres burned over earlier Tuesday in the Greenwood district, the blaze being controlled by Malcolm Dixon, assistant ranger, and crew.

Another fire on the ridge behind the Bisagno ranch on the Mosquito road was held within five acres Tuesday afternoon.

State Fire Warden Austin and Assistants Dixon and Alva Campbell were in charge of the suppression crews.

While rumor said a house had been lost in the Kelsey district, the fire wardens reported the only building lost in the fire was an abandoned barn, said to have been built in the very early days in this section.

DeWolfs Celebrate At Housewarming

About twenty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bert DeWolf called on them at their new home near Diamond Springs Tuesday night for a housewarming.

Guests were prepared with presents and with refreshments and a joyous and happy evening was spent at cards. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Wage And Hour Bill Includes Stores

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Labor Committee voted today to broaden the Senate wage and hour bill to include local retail store employees among those whose working conditions would be subject to federal regulation.

A certificate filed Wednesday with Recorder Charles Marsh tells of the birth on July 2 of a son, Vernon R. Wing, to Mr. and Mrs. Halley R. Wing of Folsom.

Geo. T. Cole Stricken

Native Of Cole's Station Succumbs Early Wednesday

Funeral services for Mr. Cole will be held at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon from the Masonic Temple in Placerville, and will be conducted by El Dorado Lodge No. 26, F. & A. M. Burial will be at Union cemetery.

George T. Cole, 54, a native of Cole's Station, this county, and a lifelong county resident, passed away Wednesday morning at Modesto. He had gone there about four weeks ago in the hope of improving his health.

The body is being returned to Placerville in the care of the Dillinger Mortuary and arrangements for the funeral will await upon the return of relatives who were summoned to the bedside Tuesday midnight.

Mr. Cole had not been well for some time past but his death came as a shock to the family and friends, for until he became seriously ill very suddenly Tuesday evening, there was no intimation of the impending sad ending of a cheerful and courageous fight for returned health.

Mrs. Elinor McGee, a niece, had been at Modesto with him, and she summoned other relatives when his condition turned for the worse Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens and Mrs. Thomas Ward, with Frank Cole, left at midnight for the bedside.

Born October 21, 1882, at Cole's Station, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole, county pioneers, Mr. Cole had spent his life at that place. During his

Grid Game For October 9

Cougars Will Meet Placer Frosh In Annual Contest

Coach L. A. Brown of El Dorado County high school has scheduled a football game with the Placer Junior College Freshmen from Auburn for October 9 in Placerville. The game is expected to be one of the bright spots of the Placerville season in 1937.

Placer Junior College of Auburn will put both a varsity and a freshman football team on the field this year, under the direction of Howard Woodside, coach. The varsity team will play in the Northern California Junior College conference, and against frosh teams from four year colleges. The frosh team will meet high school teams from Placer, Nevada and El Dorado counties.

Woodside, a former Utah Agricultural College end, teaches a game that features deception and open field play, and the exhibition in Placerville promises great interest for the fans of El Dorado County. The contest will probably become an annual event.

CINCINNATI, O.—A car of Santa Rosa and Climax varieties of California plums of Blue Goose and Placer Sweet brands, was sold through the United Fruit Auction Friday (July 16) for the joint account of the Pacific Fruit Growers' Exchange and the American Fruit Growers' Exchange. Jury Trial Asked By Roseville Man

W. E. Barker of Roseville, charged by Game Wardens Al Sears and Nelson Pool with failure to show his angling license upon demand, has entered a plea of not guilty to the charge, before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis, and asked for a trial by jury, which has been set for July 28.

W. A. Caldwell was in town Wednesday from Camino.

DEFENSE OPENS IN HALL CASE

Incest Trial May Continue Through Afternoon, Said

The state's case against Lowell Hall, of Diamond Springs, charged with incest, was closed shortly after 10 o'clock this morning in Superior Court.

The defense was begun by Attorney C. W. Pearson and it was believed by some observers that the hearing might continue through the day, with a probability the jury might not retire to begin its deliberations until Thursday morning.

The defendant took the stand in his own behalf as the principal defense witness.

The state had called, in addition to Sheriff Smith and Deputy William Bathurst, County Physician A. A. McKinnon and County Nurse Helen A. Byrnes, as well as such other witnesses as were necessary for an exposition of the allegations upon which the charge is based.

"REMBRANDT" AT EMPIRE FOR ONE NIGHT

Charles Laughton has his greatest and most human characterization in Alexander Korda's production of "Rembrandt," which marks the first film to depict the life of the greatest artist the world has ever known. It will be seen tonight only at the Empire Theatre.

In this film Laughton is said to achieve a truly striking resemblance to the great Dutch master for whom love and inspiration went hand in hand.

The film, which marks the reunion of the star and director-producer combination which gave us the unforgettable "Private Life of Henry VIII," picks up the artist's story in his youth. At that time the world was at his feet and he enjoyed a perfect marriage with the lovely Saskia, who was at one time wife, model and inspiration to him.

Fred Cox Charged By Wardens

Fred Cox of Placerville, arrested in Diamond Springs township by Game Wardens Al Sears and Nelson Pool, has pleaded not guilty to charges of "taking deer during a closed season." Cox also asked for transfer of the case from the Justice Court of Diamond Springs township to the Justice Court of Placerville township, it is reported.

The game wardens assert that "Taking" deer is defined as to "hunt, pursue, capture or kill" deer.

$200 Fine Imposed On Drunk Driver

Don E. Armstrong, arrested Tuesday evening by city officer John Bathurst on a charge of driving while drunk, pleaded guilty Wednesday morning before Police Judge Eugene Creed and was given a $200 fine, with the alternative of 100 days in jail.

Armstrong asked for a stay of judgment, which was granted, and indicated he intended to pay the fine.

Captain Hoffman was down Wednesday from Snowline.

With the Royal Commission recommending that Palestine be divided into three parts, a stronger personality than Sir Arthur is said to be necessary. BARKLEY WINS SENATE POST

Kentuckian Named As Successor To Senator Robinson

By JOE ALEX MORRIS

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Democrats by a vote of 38 to 37 today chose Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, to be their new majority leader, charged with disposing of President Roosevelt's battered judiciary program and attempting to restore party harmony.

Barkley, who defeated Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, had generally been regarded as the candidate of the administration and of the most enthusiastic supporters of the court bill. The White House, however, emphasized its neutrality.

The one vote margin by which Barkley was selected emphasized the closeness of the division of Senate Democrats. The vote of each of the 75 Democratic senators was recorded, included that of Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama who voted by proxy from his home in Jasper, Alabama.

The outcome of the leadership election was disclosed after a 45-minute session which ended in a burst of handclapping in the caucus room.

Harrison moved to make the election unanimous. The motion was adopted.

Amateurs Invited To Send In Views Of County Spots

El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce today announces a contest for amateur photographers of the county, ending on August 31, in which cash prizes will be awarded.

First prize is $5; second award is $3 and there will be seven awards of $1 each.

The picture, it is a condition of the contest, will become the property of the chamber of commerce.

The rules state that any amateur may enter and that pictures may be of any size but should be of a glossy finish and must be of scenes in El Dorado County.

The name and address of the photographer should accompany each entry on a separate sheet of paper. Mail or deliver in person to Wallace Ripley, secretary of the chamber of commerce, at Hotel Raffles.

Subjects especially desirable are of lakes, streams, mountains, valleys, historical sites, outdoor sports and industrial views.

The Mountain Democrat and The Placerville Republican will reproduce the prize-winning pictures in the newspapers.

A certificate filed with Recorder Charles Marsh on Wednesday tells of the birth, on May 8, of a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Abrams of Salmon Falls.

Hurt In Fire, Man Dies

McLennan, Back Broken, Succumbs To Heart Attack

Clay McLennan, 52, whose back was broken in two places when he rolled off the roof of the porch of the burning Golden West hotel at Diamond Springs Monday night to escape the flames, died Tuesday night at a Placerville hospital.

McLennan had just been examined by Dr. Charles V. Sorocco, who checked his pulse and blood pressure. The doctor replaced his instruments, closed his grip and started out the door, turning then for a farewell greeting.

He noticed that some strange development had taken place since his examination of the patient and returned immediately to the bedside. McLennan, suffering an apparent heart seizure, died within a few minutes.

He was reported to have been born at Klamath Falls and had been in the employ of the Stockton Box Company at Diamond Springs for the past two years as a "cut-off man."

Of a large build, he had climbed from a window of the second floor of the Golden West hotel when flames engulfed the structure Monday night, and rolled off the roof of the porch as he lost his footing, while attempting to scramble over to the edge of the

Hydraulicking Revival Near

Flood Control Bill Includes Funds For Debris Dams

SACRAMENTO (UP)—A revival of hydraulic mining in Northern California was foreseen today as a result of President Roosevelt's signing a war department appropriation flood control funds.

Included in the measure was an allocation of $1,500,000 for debris control dams on the Yuba and American Rivers, to impound sediment.

Construction of the dams will halt the muddy flow induced by hydraulic operations and permit a resumption of that kind of mining.

Miners are making preliminary arrangements in Placer, Nevada, Sierra, El Dorado and Yuba counties and elsewhere to resume hydraulic operations as soon as the dams are constructed.

SALT SPRINGS DAM ROAD CLOSED

Acting under the authority granted him in Regulation T-1, the Regional Forester has ordered the closing of the road from Lumberyard Ranger Station to the Salt Springs Dam, effective July 15.

This was the announcement Wednesday from Eldorado Forest headquarters.

Reporting the closing order, F. F. Moran, administrative assistant at the forest headquarters, declared the road has been closed owing to the extreme fire hazard condition now existing.

Several other roads within the forest are under similar closing orders.

Albright Grandchild Operated Upon

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Burke of Berkeley, who had been here visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Albright, was rushed to Berkeley Sunday, and operated upon Monday. It was the second time in a few months that the young man has submitted to a major operation.

The little fellow's parents were called here Saturday when he suddenly became ill and an examination at the Sanatorium showed an operation necessary. Accordingly, Mr. and Mrs. Burke and their son left for Berkeley Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Albright and by Mrs. V. H. Benson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leventon were in town from Grizzly Flat on Wednesday.

"Eating for Beauty" Is Healthful Way to Diet

By JUDITH WILSON

DOCTORS and nutritionists have for several years been telling us how to eat for health, but it is news when an internationally known beauty expert tells us how to eat for beauty.

There is nothing new about raw vegetables, but her combinations give the necessary vitamins and minerals. While you may not serve the many exotic foods she does, you can enjoy a "beauty luncheon" in your own home as often as you like.

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Dry Toast, Non-fattening
Butter
Black Coffee

HEALTH LUNCHEON
"Imperial Garden Plate"
Herbal Dressing
Melba Toast
Garden Bouillon
Fruit

If you are considerably overweight and must go in for serious dieting, you should consult your own physician first and make any additions or changes to the menus that he suggests. It might be fun to spring the luncheon menu on your friends the next time your bridge club meets.

IMPERIAL GARDEN PLATE
½ cantaloup
2 tablespoons blueberries
1 tablespoon sliced gooseberries
4 sections orange
4 crisp lettuce cups
¼ fresh peach

Assorted fresh vegetables (red cabbage, chicory, corn, broccoli, summer squash, radishes)
4 red cherries
Cream cheese
Tarragon

The ingredients listed are for 1 plate. Place the cantaloup in the center of a dinner plate. Fill with orange sections and the berries mixed together. Arrange the lettuce cups at intervals around the melon. Fill 1 with grated carrots, summer squash and chopped green peas; another with red cabbage and chopped corn; 1 with 2 quarters of ripe peach put together with cream cheese on a bed of finely cut chicory and sprinkled with chopped pistachio nuts; 1 with grated broccoli and radishes. Between the lettuce cups place a large red cherry stuffed with cream cheese mixed with minced fresh tarragon and powdered almonds. With the plate pass French dressing made of olive oil and lemon juice and seasoned to taste.

SALMON SOUFFLE

½ cup milk
½ cup soft bread crumbs
11-pound can salmon
4 eggs, separated
Scald the milk and pour it over the crumbs. Let stand a few minutes and combine with the salmon that has been flaked and freed from skin and bones. Add the beaten egg yolks and season to taste, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a buttered casserole and bake in a moderate oven about 45 minutes. Serve immediately. Enough for 6 servings.

"Degrees" Bestowed By Police Surgeon

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Dr. Joseph T. Freeman, newly appointed police surgeon, is also giving out degrees these days, but not to high school or college graduates.

Dr. Freeman has devised a system whereby he labels tipsy drivers, brought before him for examination, as first, second, third, or fourth "degree" drunks.

"A first degree drunk," he said, "are those who are able to navigate and retain their faculties. Second degree cases begin to lose use of their reactionary powers. The degrees go on until the stuporous, or fourth degree, is reached."

ASKS ALIMONY

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The worm has turned. The time has come when men seek alimony. O. E. Straub requested that his wife, who had applied for divorce, to show cause why she should not pay him $200 a month pending proceedings. Mrs. Straub operates a fashionable modiste shop.

Children Select Food In Diet Test; Method Partial Success

AMES, Ia. (UP)—Mrs. Mary Ella Snyder, a graduate student at Iowa State College, wondered if children, given the privilege, would select proper foods found in an approved dietary. So she began to experiment with her three children.

In her experiments, Mrs. Snyder attempted to compare the advantages of what she termed the "free choice method" with the conventional method used by most mothers in presenting their children food they believed most nourishing.

For laboratory subjects she chose her three children, 9-year-old Edward, Ralph, 7, and Mary, 5.

At each meal she placed before the children 13 dishes of simple foods such as eggs, meat, potatoes, apricots, apples and a pitcher of milk. No elaborate foods were served and each child was permitted to eat as much of any one food as he wished. She repeated the experiment at each meal for 20 days.

Mrs. Snyder discovered that all of her children preferred fruits, even to the exclusion of milk and cereals. The diets of all three were adequate except in the case of Edward. During the "free choice" period he fell slightly below his calcium and protein standard.

On certain days Edward would eat as many as 24 oranges. Mrs. Snyder concluded that the conventional type of feeding was best for him.

Ralph increased his total calories almost 20 per cent during the research period and also improved his protein and iron content. His mother decided that the "free choice" method was advantageous in his case.

6-Ton Cheese To Be Shown At Fair

LOWVILLE, N. Y. (UP)—A six-ton cheese will be poured at the West Martinsburgh cheese factory. The cheese will be exhibited at the New York state fair at Syracuse, N. Y., in the fall.

For Mary, a pre-school child with no well established food dislikes, the novel plan offered no particular advantages. Unlike her two brothers, Mary selected a wide variety of foods which met present diet requirements.

Always active in the community life, Mr. Cole was a leader in his section of the county and his usually happy disposition, which he retained even in the face of his acute illness, won him a host of friends.

Accepting the responsibilities of good citizenship throughout his life, Mr. Cole gave public service in various capacities and was, at the time of his death, a member of the county grand jury.

He was a member of Mt. Zion Lodge of Masons, at Grizzly Flat, prior to its consolidation with El Dorado Lodge No. 26, F. & A. M., and retained his membership following the consolidation in El Dorado Lodge.

He is survived by one brother, Frank Cole of Cole's Station; and by the following nephews and nieces, Henry S. Lyon, Mrs. Margaret Lyon Ward, Mrs. Jessie Lyon Stevens, Mrs. Mabel Lyon Veerkamp, Miss Ruth Lyon, Mrs. Eleanor Cole McGee and George Lyon. Mrs. Mable Cole is a sister-in-law.

Sacramentan Slays Wife In Park

SACRAMENTO (UP)—William A. Coleman, 43, faced a murder charge today because he reportedly shot and fatally wounded his blond ex-wife as she sat in a park with an escort.

Mrs. Coleman obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce four months ago. Last night, she was sitting in a park with Sam Cassanelli, 32, typewriter store operator for whom she worked. Coleman approached.

Coleman first said he fired three times at Cassanelli, missing him, then turned the gun on his wife. Later, he denied he shot at his wife, saying he fired five times at Cassanelli and the young woman "ran in front of me and got hit." Cassanelli denied pulling out a blackjack but admitted having one in his pocket. He was released after questioning.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK (UP)—Notes scribbled on a wine card as the S. S. Berengaria, bearing the Ryder Cup team and Tommy Farr, slide through the harbor to her North River berth:

Farr, who'll challenge Joe Louis next month, was flattened three years ago by a gentleman who didn't even trouble to remove his topcoat or monocle.

Farr was working as a circus strong man at the time, meeting all comers. One of those "stay one round and get a prize" businesses. In walked the stylishly dressed fellow and after a careful scrutiny of Farr, he said: "I fancy I'll take you." No one was more surprised than Farr when the "toff" proceeded to knock him out inside a round.

Farr told this story and said that anyone who doubted it could write to Hopkins Davis, Esq., London, for proof. Hopkins Davis is the "toff" who shed the morning coat and put Farr into mourning.

Mike Jacobs heard Farr tell the press this story and damn near swooned. Mike knows that fighters knocked out by innocent bystanders make very little copy.

So he quickly said to Tommy: "But that was a long time ago, when you were a boy." "No, it wasn't," Mister Jacobs answered the Welshman. "It was only a few years ago."

Ralph Guldahl, national open champion, says the English are the worst sports in the world. The worst golf sports, anyway. "They yelled with glee when the English players made a good shot and they yelled with glee when we made a bad shot," Guldahl said.

"I don't care if I ever visit that country again," Tommy Manero, 1936 open champ, echoed Guldahl's opinion. "In my match with Henry Cotton I begged the gallery to give me room to make my shots. But they crowded me so closely, and talked so much, that I couldn't hit the ball."

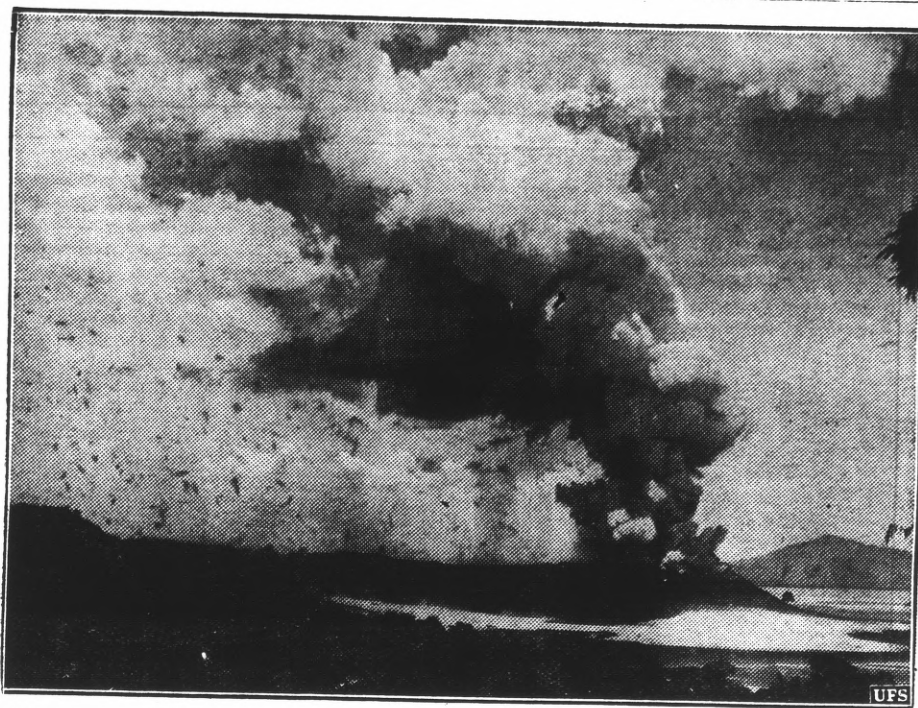

George Jacobs, RGA president, was down to meet the Ryder Cup boys and acted so important that most of the people on the dock thought that he had won all the doubles and singles matches singlehanded.

Farr revealed that he could run the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat, which caused one wag to remark that in telling of his speed, Tommy had probably disclosed his defense against the heavyweight champion.

The best crack of the day was made by a sports writer who, seeing Jeff Dickson of Paris in deep and earnest conference with Promoter Mike Jacobs, and figuring Jeff was trying to ease himself in on the promotion of the fight, tapped him on the shoulder and said: "Jeff, if you're trying to cut in on the dough, you might as well ring the gong on yourself. Because this isn't amateur night. You're talking to a professional who knows all the answers."

Jacobs, by the way, is about as difficult to "cut" as stone mountain.

Farr thinks Louis will be easy because of the Negro's slow footwork. Farr says Joe is flat-footed and therefore a sucker for a fast mover. The fact still remains, however, that Louis can knock an opponent kicking

Note how the top of the mountain has been blown off, while the air is filled with ashes, mud and white-hot rocks.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

If Blood Is Coughed Up, It May Be From Stomach, Nose or Throat, Not Lungs

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

WHENEVER much blood is coughed up or flows from the mouth, we all fear it is from the lungs and that we have tuberculosis.

This assumption often leads to much mental distress and an error in diagnosis.

Active bleeding sometimes comes in lung tuberculosis. It also is very common from ulcer of the stomach or from the back part of the nose and the throat. High blood pressure and weakened blood vessels may also be the cause.

When the blood is most abundant it is from the stomach. It may be bright or rather dark and comes as is that from the stomach and throat.

Mrs. C. E. H., of New York, has experienced severe bleeding from the mouth each spring for several years. She was told she had tuberculosis, but as she had no other tubercular symptoms, she went to a tuberculosis sanatorium where X-ray and other examinations showed she had slight healed areas in one lung, but no active condition and that nothing was wrong with the lung.

I think that an X-ray of any of our lungs will show old healed areas, as almost all of us have tubercular infection at some time and recover. Mrs. H. does not have any pain in the lung nor does she have any cough, not even a hack. She is unable to recognize the source of the bleeding. And I am unable to explain its occurrence in the spring, unless some local atmospheric or working condition exists. She lives on a farm, high above the clouds, and before her husband died she was working not only in her home but in the fields.

The only warning she has of an impending attack is that she feels heavy and sick under the left breast and up to the shoulder, then down the left arm. Her description is typical of an attack of angina pectoris. She also has spasmodic attacks of asthma, which are usually relieved by mental calmness. There is a further factor of high blood pressure and the altitude at which Mrs. H. lives causes shortness of breath on exertion.

She describes the blood as being heavy and dark, looking jelly-like or curdled. From that I judge that her blood clots rather slowly. This discharge is not coming from the lungs, but might be coming from the stomach either from an ulcer or from a broken blood vessel due to high tension. Very many persons suffer from nose bleed in any exertion at high altitudes.

This patient was raised there but did not have any of this trouble till after the menopause. It is an interesting study to determine why an otherwise healthy individual should have this experience. The combination of high blood pressure, angina pectoris and a high altitude are the exciting causes. I suggest that an X-ray picture of the stomach be made. Her blood does not clot well; she has many small broken vessels on her lower limbs.

An extended course of medication combining calcium and phosphorus to improve the clotting of the blood is indicated. Either a lower altitude or more rest is advisable. There should be an effort to reduce the blood pressure and medicines prescribed designed to overcome general nervousness and apprehension.

stock in the warehouse as about $2,000. In addition, the body was burned off one delivery truck and another truck was badly damaged.

Otto Weichold, proprietor of the bakery, leases the building and owns the fixtures and stock which, he said, were damaged in the amount of about $2,000.

Mr. Weichold said he and Bill Weber, baker, were working in the fore part of the shop when he discovered the blaze in the rear of the shop, near an oil burner which is used to heat the oven. He did not know whether the fire started from the oil burner.

He declared his plans for the future have not been definitely determined but that it is his hope to continue in business at the same location. For the present, necessarily, business will be suspended.

Deluxe Craft For Ocean Sight-Seers

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island (UP)—Forty-two years of progress in the building of glass-bottomed boats for the marine gardens off Santa Catalina Island are represented in the new Torqua, a stream-lined craft resembling a speedy cabin cruiser.

Instead of the familiar side-paddle glass bottom boat, the Torqua is propelled by twin screw motors of 550 horsepower capable of 19 knots. The ship carries 85 passengers and can seat 50 passengers around its "sea windows." The new craft is constructed with 240 cubic feet of cork to make it unsinkable.

Perhaps the first glass bottom boat used to inspect the famous submarine gardens was a small tin boat in 1895. It was propelled from the stern with bicycle pedals by a man seated astride an elevated bicycle seat.

News Of U. S. Freedom Only 2-Line Item

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Benjamin Towne, editor of the Pennsylvania Evening Post, scooped the world on July 2, 1776 with the biggest story of his century—decision of the Continental Congress to declare this county independent.

And in two lines—just 13 words—the pioneer Philadelphia editor presented his story—one of the greatest news beats in American history.

Post readers, a Federated Writers' Project pamphlet reports, were informed of the historic decision by the following sentence:

"This day the Continental Congress declared the United States free and independent states."

Marconi Mourned By Thousands

ROME (UP)—Thousands of Italians, rich and poor, filed silently today past the bier of Guglielmo Marconi, who died in the midst of the most amazing experiment of his amazing inventive career.

At dusk today private funeral services were to be held in the little church of Santa Maria Deglie Angeli where Marconi often prayed. Premier Mussolini ordered a national funeral at Marconi's native Bologna where the body will be buried in the family vault at Pontecchio.

N. Y. Island Held By Family More Than 300 Years

By GEORGE R. MORRIS, JR.

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW LONDON, Conn. (UP)—When Miss Sarah Gardiner, New York, recently bought lonely Gardiner's Island at the eastern passage of Long Island, preserving 300 years of Gardiner domain there, a couple of ghosts of famous men may have breathed easier.

One of the ghosts is that of Captain William Kidd, the pirate, who was reputed to have buried much treasure there, as he did in Money Pound on nearby Fishers Island and on Money Island in the Thimble. The other is an older, shrewder, and grimmer ghost, that of old Lion Gardiner, himself, who during the Pequot War, devised the "pretty prank" of defending Saybrook with a series of great mats, studded with sharp nails and placed where Indians must walk if they staged a night attack. The results were gory.

Lieutenant Gardiner, after his five years' contract to defend Saybrook post ran out, purchased Gardiner's Island, then known as Monckonack. A little lonely, perhaps, Gardiner named it the Isle of Wight. In 1639 William Alexander, Earl of Stirling, confirmed the purchase by a patent giving him almost complete sovereignty over his domain. Since it has never left ownership by his descendants.

Last year, a modern descendant, Lion Gardiner, died, leaving an estate of cash, stocks and the mortgage on the island. Liquid funds were insufficient to pay Federal and state taxes and the estate was threatened with seizure and sale. The mortgage, which Lion had held on the island, resulted from his sale of it to Jonathan Gardiner, an uncle in East Hampton, Conn. In part payment, Johnathan gave Lion a mortgage for $345,000, due April 1, 1940. Johnathan died in 1933. Lion's executors threatened to foreclose the mortgage against a bank, as executors of Johnathan's will, and were successful in the ensuing litigation. The island was ordered sold at public auction on June 10 at East Hampton. Miss Gardiner bought it.

Not only did she save the island for the family, but according to Phelan Beale, New York, who announced the sale, she prevented several contemplated ideas from being carried out.

He said one group planned its purchase for a "so-called American Monte Carlo, with gambling casino, hotel and race track." Another hoped to purchase it for a "heaven" for Father Divine and his "angels." The author of a third scheme sought to purchase it with the idea of its soon becoming a sort of feudal holding for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Beale said the promoters of all three schemes desired to borrow money on the strength of their "vision."

Mask Combats Hay Fever

Tests On 40 People Show Device 99 Pct. Efficient

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—An anti-hay fever mask that prevents the entrance of pollen into the nose and mouth by means of electrically charged plates has been perfected by Dr. Joseph B. Biederman, Cincinnati physician.

Dr. Biederman completed the mask after five years' research. He contends tests on 40 patients showed the device stopped 99.44 to 100 per cent of the pollen from reaching the sensitive membranes that cause the sneezing and gasping peculiar to hay fever, asthma, rose fever and similar complaints.

The mask is not helpful in cases where the disturbance is caused by certain foods, but Dr. Biederman believes the majority of hay fever cases are caused through inhalation.

The mask fits snugly over the mouth and nose. It consists chiefly of paper filters and two wire screens, one negatively charged and the other positively charged.

Art and Beauty That Live and Breathe

MARKET-PLACE FOR PRETTINESS—New York Studio of John Robert Powers is a center for hundreds of America's loveliest girls. They're the ones who look at you from many magazine covers and ads. Whenever an illustrator or an advertiser needs an unusually pretty model, he calls up Powers, shown at lower left with one of the girls. Anita Louise, Constance Cummings and Barbara Stanwyck are some he started on the road to fame. The girls, regardless of Park Avenue or humble small-town origin, are not play-girls, for they work hard and must conserve their talents. Note, cameraman, even while awaiting an assignment. Lower right shows the girls in a relaxed mood. The best of them obtain excellent fees for posing. Some of the Powers girls will appear in a forthcoming technicolor film, "Vogues of 1938."

"Dust Bowl" Refugees Present Problem For California

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Between 300,000 and 400,000 migrants from the dust bowl and flood areas constitute California's most serious problem, Harold H. Robertson, field secretary of the Gospel Army, reports.

"Unless immediate measures are adopted to provide medical treatment and rehabilitation, and some plan to stop this homeless horde from coming into California, by fall this state will be facing the most serious health, moral, economic and sociological problem in its history," Robertson said. The secretary of the religious and welfare organization recently completed a survey of migrant and transient conditions in the San Joaquin and Imperial Valleys.

"We cannot assume the task of feeding, clothing and housing these people because such a task is beyond the combined capacity of all private relief and welfare organizations," Robertson said.

He said health records in three northern counties reveal many of the migrants have died from malnutrition and exposure. Robertson quoted Dr. Elmo Zumwalt of Tulare County as saying 6,000 persons have been vaccinated for typhoid because of fear of an epidemic.

"These refugees are mostly from the flood and dust bowl sections of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas, with a smattering from Kansas and Oklahoma," Robertson said.

"The majority of them have come to California within the last six or seven months and the U. S. Resettlement Bureau says 100,000 more are on the way. Very few of these people have obtained employment. They are settled mostly in the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys, in Los Angeles County, and in the Imperial Valley counties.

"A percentage of them come from the cotton states of the South, and large numbers of these people who have had some experience with cotton, are camped in Kern and Tulare counties, where there are no jobs to take care of them. These people who have come in from the flood and dust bowl districts, for the most part, are not transients but rather are migrants and intend to stay in California.

"Labor contractors in the San Joaquin Valley have told me that most of these people are incompetent as laborers in the fruit and vegetable harvesting. They told me they tried to replace white, Japanese and Filipino laborers several months ago, with some of these migrants, but that most of them reported they were unable to stand the work," Robertson said.

"Approximately one-half of this migrant group is of a particularly low moral calibre. Inbreeding is quite common. I have seen instances of members of the same family living together, and among some groups it has not been uncommon for brother to live with sister, or father with daughter. Many of the adults have never had any education and are unable to sign their names to receipts for food and clothing given them by welfare organizations," Robertson said.

Texas Tarantulas Trapped By Tricks

OROSBY, Tex. (UP)—Luring fuzzy-legged tarantulas from their homes by stirring the hobs with sticks and singing "Doodle-bug, doodle-bug, your house is on fire" has become a favorite summer pastime in this small Texas town.

Lawns here are spotted generously with tarantula holes. Crosby citizens have undertaken a campaign "to the death" against the pests and now have evolved novel methods of enticing the tarantulas from their holes.

Bill Shimek, who claims title to champion tarantula killer with 300 to his credit, believes in the childhood "stick-stirring" method. He does not deem essential the singing of the doodle-bug rime.

After a close study of the habits of the spiders, Mrs. G. Coker reported that they are music lovers and can be lured from their homes by playing on an oat straw.

Mrs. Coker also suggested pouring a quantity of water down a tarantula hole, then holding a mirror over the hole. "The tarantula will think it is being attacked by one of his kind and will come out enraged," she said.

Road Critic Gets Punch In Jaw

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—Motorists driving through Pine Grove Borough, near here, perhaps had better keep quiet about the condition of the roads. One man drove up to a highway employee and began to criticize the job. The highway worker, a husky youth, didn't like the criticism.

An argument ensued, and led to a fist fight. After the melee was over, the young laborer had a broken hand, but the motorist had a broken nose.

Charles Cello and Mrs. Camilla Cello came down from Meyers Station on Wednesday morning. Charles planned to return during the day and his mother to remain for a day or so, attending to business.

Speed Cause Of More Crashes

7 Reasons For Fatal Accidents Listed By 26 States

NEW YORK (UP)—The National Safety Council, realizing that with the total registration of cars in the United States at a peak of 28,221,000 the congested highways will increase accidents, has gathered a number of interesting accidents facts for summer motorists to study.

Four out of five accidents, says the council, occur while driving straight ahead and the same percentage occur on dry roads and in clear weather.

The seven reasons for fatal accidents reported by 26 states rank as follows:

1. Exceeding speed limit or going too fast for conditions.
2. Driving on wrong side of road.
3. Disregarded stop signs or signals.
4. Did not have right of way.
5. Cutting in.
6. Passing on curve or hill.
7. Failing to signal.

Eighty-seven per cent of victims in collisions between passenger cars and trucks were in passenger cars and 93 per cent in collisions between passenger cars and buses were in the former.

Nature of injuries in fatal accidents showed fractured skull, 46 per cent; fractured spine 3 per cent; other fractures 21 per cent and internal injuries 17 per cent.

The council reported that the higher the speed the worse the accident. At 20 miles an hour, one accident in 61 was fatal; and the ratio increases until, at over 50 miles an hour, one accident in every 11 is fatal.

Twenty per cent of the nation's traffic at night causes three-fifths of all deaths, the council reported.
